2. CAPTURE THE FLAG

About the Event:

Capture the Flag (CTF) is a cybersecurity competition in which "flags" are secretly hidden in purposefully-vulnerable programs or websites. It can either be for competitive or educational purposes. Competitors steal flags either from other competitors (attack/defence-style CTFs) or from the organisers (jeopardy-style challenges). Several variations exist. For this year, flags were encrypted, hashed and hidden in vulnerable websites.

- Dr. K Ajay Kumar (Associate professor, ME)

Student coordinators of the event:

- Ananya (IT)
- Varun (EEE)
- Naidhruv (ME)

Event Description:

Silicon dating was conducted on the first day of Convergence, i.e., 24/01/2023, in A.P.J Abdul Kalam auditorium. It is a single day event.

The main objective of this event is to encourage and guide the students who are interested in start-ups. This event is initiated by circulating a Google form, where in everyone who is interested to participate in the event filled it. Silicon dating focused on both the categories of students, the one with start-up ideas and the one the with skills and lacking an idea.

On the first day of Convergence, i.e., 24th, all the students who filled the Google form were gathered at venue. The students having a start-up idea were given a chance to pitch their ideas and the ones which don't have an idea but interested to get indulged in a start-up were made familiar with all the start-up ideas that were pitched.

This networking event gave a platform for the students with a start-up idea to connect with those who are interested to devote their skills for a start-up.

The networking event was taken forward by conducting a fun task

- The students were divided into teams and are given random start-up names
- Then the teams belonging to the same genre of start-ups are asked to advertise their start-up

Participants:

Around 40 students participated in this event.

Description:

The theme is "DIGITAL ERA 2.0," and the primary objective is to make solutions easy to implement in our daily lives. On the first day, January 24th, each participant began working on their problem statements, and 12:00 PM one of our jury members examined each team's statement and collected pitches from each team present. Following the completion of each team's pitching, the teams were given an additional couple of hours to think about and develop their own solution to the chosen problem, and the first round of evaluation began in the evening of the day, with the jury members looking into each team's work and providing them with some better ideas to develop the solution in a broader sense. With that, the first day was completed, and the participants could explore what else could be added to their solution to improve it.

DAY-2, or January 25th, has begun, and each team had three hours to complete before their final round of evaluation. As a result, our mentors were all on to assist them and dispel any uncertainty. Later, on January 25th, at 12:00 p.m., the final round of evaluation began, with jury members visiting each team and judging the efficiency of the solution as well as its applicability to us. The software hackathon results were announced at the conclusion of the day.

DIURNALIS

About the event: Know your peer: “Know your peer” is a funny game played between two peers. The game has three rounds with Challenges in between. We have two players for this game. In the first round, both players must be seated opposite each other. They will be given a set of 5 questions, and the matching percentage of their answers will be calculated. If the matching percentage is equal to or above 80%, they can skip the challenge and move to the next round. If not, they must complete the challenge.

Of the 2 players, only one will be completing the challenge in case of failure; the second player has to take the punishment. Before punishing a player, one is given a special option (trust check). If the challenge is successfully accomplished, the challenge score is added to their score and they are allowed to the next round. All three rounds are in the above pattern. According to the final score, the players are given a title and rewarded with a goody.

Brain Mithai: “Brain mithai” is a technical challenge and fun game. It’s a single-player game. The game consists of 6 domains. The player has the choice to choose any of the above domains of their interest. Then the player must pick a paper chit from the box of the respected domain, this paper chit contains a number that represents a question/or a set of questions (a set has 10 questions each of types MCQs and fill in the blanks) according to the domain the player has chosen. The challenge in the game is to solve a particular question or set that the player got in the given time interval. If the player fails to complete the challenge, he will be given an almond as a sign of gratitude.
